Outlook for 2023

In a rapidly evolving media landscape, Kairos Communication Service International will seize the opportunity to continue advancing with the times and updating our diverse programs. However, amidst these changes, we will not deviate from our original mission received from God: to preach the gospel and edify believers based on the Bible, God's Word. With the Lord's permission, we have the following plans:

- Increase the quantity and quality of Bible study and devotional programs in our multimedia production.
- Collaborate with churches and organizations to produce pastoral preaching programs and gospel-oriented outreach programs, such as community care programs.

- Increase the frequency of Zoom forums and hold special lectures to assist in training ministers and lay leaders.
- Continue writing, producing, and uploading teaching materials for Bible books that are currently lacking on our E-Learning platform. Our goal is to complete the writing and production of teaching materials for all 66 books of the Bible.
- Develop online courses for Kairos Institute and provide special training programs. We hope to recruit talented individuals for content writing, media production, and hosting programs.

As the pandemic gradually subsides and life begins to return to normal, Kairos' ministry will move forward. We need God's grace and your continued support through prayer, giving, and direct involvement to help us fulfill the mission entrusted to Kairos by the Lord.

During this joyful Christmas season and as we enter the new year, on behalf of the Kairos board of directors and staff, I offer endless gratitude to our Heavenly Father for granting us salvation and extend our deepest thanks to you for your love and support for Kairos. May the Lord bless you abundantly and keep you and your family secure in His love!
